

CIPL Travel grants, Spring/summer 2020

As announced before, the Executive Committee of the Comité International Permanent des Linguistes, CIPL awarded three travel grants for young PhD students in the spring/summer CIPL Grant programme.

The grants have been awarded to:

Melissa Irvine, University of Auckland, New Zealand, for participation in the 23rd Biennial Conference of the Society for Caribbean Linguistics to be held in Trinidad and Tobago (August 2020)

Victoria Leonetti Escandel, Universidad Complutense de Madrid, Spain, for participation in the conference 'Processing of Reference and Anaphora Resolution' to be held in Brussels (September 2020)

Teja Rebernik, University of Groningen, Netherlands, for participation in the 12th International Seminar on Speech Production to be held in Providence (December 2020).

The grants consist of € 500 and are intended for presentation of a paper at an international scholarly conference. A special committee chaired by Prof. Dr. Frederick J. Newmeyer has assessed the applications.

Due to the Covid19 pandemic most of the summer 2020 conferences have been postponed, organized online or canceled. Melissa Irvine was able to 'attend' an online conference (see her report in this newsletter). The conference Victoria Leonetti Escandel wanted to participate in has been postponed to 2021 and unfortunately the Providence Seminar Teja Rebernik was awarded a grant for has been cancelled.
